COMPANY PROFILE

OUR MISSION

To be the largest most vertically, most horizontally integrated company producing and adding value (processing), packaging and supplying local agro-based products.

Introduction

The cashew tree is a tropical evergreen tree that produces the cashew seed and the cashew apple. The tree can grow as high as 14m, but the dwarf cashew, growing up to 6m, has proved more profitable, with earlier maturity and greater yields. The cashew seed is often considered a nut in the culinary sense. This cashew nut is eaten on its own as raw or roasted, used in recipes, ground to a powder or processed into cashew cheese or cashew butter and many more other ways. Like the tree, the nut is often simply called a cashew.

The species is native to Central America, the Caribbean Islands, and northern South America, including north eastern Brazil. The Portuguese colonists in Brazil began exporting cashew nuts as early as the 1550s. In 2017, Vietnam, India, and Ivory Coast were the major producers.

The shell of the cashew seed yields derivatives that can be used in many applications including lubricants, waterproofing, paints, and arms production, starting in World War. The cashew apple is a light reddish to yellow fruit, whose pulp can be processed into a sweet, astringent fruit drink or distilled into liquor.

In Zambia, the Cashew Nut is concentrated in the Western Province of the country. The trees grow and flourish in this region because of the natural favourable conditions such as unique soil, geography, climate and other conditions.
